Subject - Homicide, New Brunswick, N.J.,
Operative - 312.

312 / Halfner, Mr. Bradley

that Long was a H--- of a Coroner, afraid to touch a body.

While Operative, Halfner and Garry Kenny were in conversation they were joined by Mr. Bradley.

Mr. Bradley told Operative about the house that was to let at Lincoln Garden, and asked Operative if he would like to go to see it. Operative and Mr. Bradley then boarded a bus and proceeded to Lincoln Garden.

While riding on the bus Mr. Bradley informed Operative that they were going to arrest Carpenter, he said that he had heard it down at the Court House last week. Bradley thought that the Officials were very foolish to pick on a man like Carpenter, he said, "You know he was in the Navy and when the English and the French laid down on the job, Carpenter went in and got the first German boat, and we all know that; he is a good fellow and wont take their bluffs. He will either come right out and say he done it, or he will fight them like H--- to a standstill." Mr. Bradley told Operative that he also heard while at the Court House that they were going to arrest Mrs. Hall. Mr. Bradley then said, "Well, Smith tried to get back on one of the papers in Town by suing them." Operative asked Mr. Bradley who Mr. Smith was, and Mr. Bradley replied that Smith lived near the Phillips' Farm, and had seen Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills cross the field. He further stated that if the papers had left Smith alone that they might have got somewhere in the case. He told Operative how Smith had told him how he (Smith) had found keys, knives and money up around there, and many times he would see cars up at the house with their lights out, and that they would be there a few hours at a time. Mr. Bradley said that Smith had told him how several people would visit the old Farm House and spend quite a time in there, leaving their cars outside without the lights lit. Mr. Bradley said that Smith no doubt could tell something but the papers got after him and he got sore and went down and saw a lawyer
